

Why model $p(x)$

- Generate new data
- Detect anomalies and outliers (e.g. fraud detection)
- Work with missing data
- Represent your data in a nice way (e.g. model $p(\text{molecule})$ to search for drugs)