

Why personalized features work

It turns out we learn better “global” preference having personalized features which learn “local” user preference

- You can think of it as a more universal definition of spam

